I the undersigned, declare as follows:

1. My name is Alan E. Ferguson, and I am the attorney of record for Jesus Guzman-Gallardo, the material witness in the above-captioned matter. I am an attorney duly licensed to practice law in the State of California and am admitted to practice before the United States District Court for the Southern District of California.

2. On July 23, 2008, I was appointed to represent the material witness in the above-captioned matter. As a Material Witness attorney, one of my primary responsibilities is to help arrange the release of the material witness from the custody of the U.S. Marshal and BICE as soon as practicable. To that end, I immediately conducted interviews with the Material Witness, through a certified Spanish language interpreter to explain why he was being held and under what conditions he could be released. I informed the Material Witness that the most expedient way to be released

1 is by having a personal surety post a court approved appearance bond. I explained that a personal
2 surety would have to agree to sign a $5,000.00 appearance bond, post $500.00 cash with the court,
3 and agree to allow the Material Witness to stay with the surety or a family member pending final
4 disposition of the case. Unfortunately, I have been unable to locate any possible surety for this 5 Material Witness, and am now relegated to filing this motion.

6 3. I am not aware or have not been informed of any reason in this case why the Material
7 Witness testimony can not be adequately secured by deposition by either the government or the 8 defendant's attorney. To the contrary, compelling reasons exists for the release of the material 9 witness as continued detention will cause a hardship on the material witness.

10 4. The Material Witness is willing to discuss everything he knows about this case with both 11 the defense and government investigators. The fact is, however, there are only a few facts relevant 12 to this case which the material witness is competent to testify: i.e. (a) his citizenship, (b) his 13 identification of the driver of the vehicle, and (c) whether the witness agreed to pay anyone.
14 According to preliminary interviews, all of the facts relevant to this case in the material witness'
15 knowledge took place over a very short period of time.

16 5. I explained the general procedure for videotape depositions to the witness and explained
17 that, if he were released after the deposition, he may have to return to testify at trial if subpoenaed
18 by the government or defendant. The witness indicated he is willing to return if arrangements for 19 his legal re-entry could be made and travel expenses provided.

20 I declare under penalty of perjury, under the laws of the United States of America, that the 21 foregoing is true and correct of my own personal knowledge, except as to those matters stated to be 22 based upon information and belief, and as to those matters, I am informed and believe them to be 23 true and correct.

24 Executed on August 14, 2008, in San Diego, California.

25 Respectfully Submitted,

TO UNITED STATES ATTORNEY KAREN P. HEWITT; ASSISTANT UNITED STATES ATTORNEY; AND TO NANCY B. ROSENFELD, CJA ATTORNEY FOR DEFENDANT:

The Material Witness, Jesus Guzman-Gallardo, (hereafter "Material Witness") by and through his counsel, Alan E. Ferguson, submits the following Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of his motion to take the videotaped deposition.

I.

INTRODUCTION

On or about July 21, 2008, the Material Witness was detained by U.S. Border Patrol Agents in connection with the arrest of the above captioned Defendant. The defendant has been charged with transportation of illegal aliens and aiding and abetting, in violation of Title 8 U.S.C.

§1324(a)(1)(A)(ii), and 8 U.S.C. §1324(a)(1)(A)(v)(II); and therefore the Material Witness has been detained as a Material Witness under 8 U.S.C. § 1227 (d).

The Material Witness is currently being held in U.S. Marshall custody in San Diego, California. After repeated efforts to secure a surety for this material witness, it has been determined that no possible surety is either willing, or able to post a bond for him to allow for his release from custody during the pendency of this case.

It is unnecessary to keep the Material Witness in the United States because his testimony can be preserved through the use of a videotaped deposition. The Material Witness therefore requests a court order that her testimony be preserved through the use of videotape depositions and, thereafter, that he be allowed to return to Mexico.

II.

DEPOSITION IS MANDATED BY STATUTE

A. 18 USC. § 3144

Congress specifically enacted a statute to deal with the issue presented in this case, i.e., material witnesses who remain incarcerated owing solely to their inability to secure bond. In unmistakably plain language, Congress outlawed prolonged incarceration of such persons without substantial justification. "No material witness may be detained because of inability to comply with any condition of release if the testimony of such witness can be secured by deposition, and if further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure of justice." 18 U.S.C. § 3144. "Upon such a showing, the district court must order [the witness'] deposition and prompt release." Torres-Ruiz v. United States District Court for the Southern District of California, 120 F.3d 933, 935 (9th Cir. 1997) (emphasis in original).

B. Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 15

A material witness also may secure his or her own release by filing a written motion in the district court requesting a deposition and release. Fed. R. Crim. P. 15(a). Under such circumstances, "[i]f the deposition would prove admissible over any objection under the Confrontation Clause of the United States Constitution or the Federal Rules of Evidence, then the material [witness] must be deposed rather than detained." Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 F.2d 411, 413 (5th Cir. 1992)

(emphasis added).

Whenever due to exceptional circumstances of the case it is in the interests of justice that the testimony of a prospective witness of a party be taken and served for use at trial, the court may upon motion of such party and notice to parties order that the testimony of such witness be taken by deposition "If a witness is detained pursuant to section 3144 of title 18, United States Code, the court on written motion of the witness and upon notice to the parties may direct that the witness' deposition be taken. After the deposition has been subscribed the court may discharge the witness." Aguilar-Ayala, 973 F.2d at 413 (quoting Fed. R. Crim. P. 15(a)).

Prolonged incarceration of the witnesses solely because of their inability to secure bond thus violates the clearly stated intent of Congress and straightforward rulings by the Court of Appeals prohibiting such practices. "[I]t is clear from a conjunctive reading [of Rule 15(a)] with § 3144 that the discretion to deny the motion is limited to those instance in which the deposition would not serve as an adequate substitute for the witness' live testimony: that a failure of justice would ensue were the witness released. Absent a failure of justice, the witness must be released." Torres-Ruiz, 120 F.3d 933, 935 (citing Aguilar-Ayala, 973 F.2d at 413 (internal citations and internal quotations omitted); see also United States v. Rivera, 859 F.2d 1204 (4th Cir. 1988).

C. Defendant Has Not Met Her Burden to Defeat the Motion for Video Deposition

To defeat a motion for video deposition of the material witness, the burden is on the opposing party to show admission of deposition testimony will result in a "failure of justice." 18 U.S.C. § 3144; Torres-Ruiz, 120 F.3d 933, 935. To meet this burden, defendant must make a plausible showing the witness' testimony would be both material and favorable to his defense. See United States v. Valenzuela-Bernal, 458 U.S. 858, 866 (9182).

In Valenzuela-Bernal, the defendant was charged with transporting an illegal alien. The government detained the illegal alien as a material witness (Witness No. 1) but deported two' other witnesses (Witnesses Nos. 2 and 3)(also illegal aliens) before defendant was able to interview them. Defendant appealed, claiming deportation of Witnesses Nos. 2 and 3 deprived him of the opportunity to determine whether their testimony would aid his defense. According to the Supreme Court, even though defendant knew what Witnesses 2 and 3 might have said to him to indicate whether Witness No. 1 had legal status to be present in this country, defendant failed to show how the deported witnesses' testimony would have been helpful to his defense. Valenzuela-Bernal, 458

1 U.S. at 873.

2 [I]t should be remembered that [defendant] was present throughout the commission
 3 of this crime. No one knows better than he what the deported witnesses actually said
 4 to him, or in his presence, that might bear upon whether he knew that [Witness No.
 5 1] was an illegal alien who had entered the country within the past three years. And,
 6 in light of the actual charge made in the indictment, it was only the status of [Witness
 7 No. 1] which was relevant to the defense. [Witness No. 1], of course, remained fully 8 available for examination by the defendant and his attorney. We thus conclude that 9 the [defendant] can establish no Sixth Amendment violation without making some 10 plausible explanation of the assistance he would have received from the testimony
 11 of the deported witnesses. Valenzuela-Bernal, 458 U.S. at 871.

12 The Supreme Court's reasoning applies with even greater force in this case. In Valenzuela-
 13 Bernal, the witnesses were deported before defendant had the opportunity to interview them. Here, 14 defendant has the opportunity to interview the material witness while he is incarcerated, and the 15 opportunity is extended to the defense. As of this date, defendant has produced no evidence, nor has 16 he made any showing the material witness has material information helpful to his defense. In short,
 17 defendant has made no showing of a failure of justice. Consequently, the material witness must be 18 deposed and released.

19 II.

20 EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES

21 MANDATE DEPOSITION AND RELEASE

22 As a prerequisite to an order for a deposition, the court must find exceptional circumstances
 23 where the interests of justice require taking and preserving the testimony of a prospective witness
 24 for possible use at trial. Fed. R. Crim. P. 15(a). Such a finding is clear and distinct from the 25 prerequisites of witness unavailability and material testimony that control the admission of a 26 deposition into evidence at trial. See United States v. Sines, 761 F.2d 1434, 1439 (9th Cir. 1985).
 27 As shown herein, this witness has met his burden to show exceptional circumstances sufficient to 28 merit grant of his motion for deposition and release.

29 A. Prolonged Incarceration Is An Exceptional Circumstance

30 In a case originating in the Southern District of California, the Ninth Circuit issued a writ of 31 mandamus ordering video depositions for material witnesses who were unable to secure bond "in 32 a straightforward and uncomplicated alien smuggling prosecution." Torres-Ruiz, 120 F.3d 933, 935.

1 In another case where the material witnesses had been in custody for a mere three weeks, the Fourth
 2 Circuit held continued incarceration with no prospective surety available to post bond was an 3 exceptional circumstance justifying deposition and release of the material witnesses. United States
 4 v. Rivera, 859 F.2d 1204, 1205 (4th Cir. 1988). As the Rivera Court observed, "humanitarian 5 considerations alone demand that something be done to release [the material witnesses] from 6 incarceration, when their only purpose for being incarcerated is to be witnesses. And whether they 7 voluntarily flee after their depositions have been taken or whether the INS deports them back to 8 their countries of origin is beside the point." Rivera, 859 F.2d 1205 (emphasis added).

9 The circumstances in this case are similar to Torres-Ruiz and Rivera, as the witness
 10 continues to be held for no purpose other than to be a witness. Because a deposition serves as an 11 adequate alternative to his continued incarceration, this witness has "an overriding liberty interest 12 in not being detained as a material witness when the deposition procedure serves as an adequate 13 alternative to prolonged detention." Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 F.2d 411, 419-420 (5th Cir. 1992).
 14 Under the standards articulated by the Court of Appeals, prolonged incarceration of a witness merely 15 because of the inability to secure bond is an exceptional circumstance that mandates an immediate 16 deposition and release.

17 III.

18 Deposition Preserves Defendants' Rights

19 A. Deposition Preserves Defendants' Sixth Amendment Right to Confrontation

20 Under ideal circumstances, the material witness would be deposed and released and would 21 subsequently return for defendants' trial. The Office of the United States Attorney in fact employs 22 well-established procedures whose goal is to ensure just such a result. Prior to release, the 23 government is required to serve the material witness with a subpoena for the trial date and a travel
 24 fund advance letter. Thus, under ideal circumstances, the material witness would return for trial and 25 questions about preserving defendants' rights to confront and cross-examine the material witness 26 would be moot.

27 / / /

28 Even if the material witness does not return for trial, however, the material witness deposition

1 will be admissible in lieu of live testimony. See United States v. Rivera, 859 F.2d 1204, 1205 (4th
2 Cir. 1988). Admission of prior-recorded testimony by a witness who is unavailable for trial has in 3 fact been upheld for more than a century. In 1895, the Supreme Court held admission of testimony 4 given at a defendant's first trial by a witness who died before the second trial did not violate the 5 confrontation clause. Mattox v. United States, 156 U.S. 237 (1895). Since that time, courts have 6 consistently upheld the principle that prior-recorded testimony later admitted at trial does not violate
7 a defendant's Sixth Amendment confrontation rights so long as: (1) there is some exceptional
8 circumstance where, in the interests of justice, it is necessary to take and preserve testimony outside
9 the court; (2) the prior testimony was given at a hearing; (3) an authorized person put the witness 10 under oath; (4) defendant had the right to be present; (5) defendant was represented by counsel who 11 was given a complete and adequate opportunity to cross-examine the witness; and (6) the witness
12 meets the criteria for unavailability. See 18 U.S.C. § 3503; Fed. R. Civ. Proc., Rules 28 and 30; Fed.
13 R. Evid. 804(a); see also California v. Green, 399 U.S. 149, 163-164 (1970); Torres-Ruiz v. United 14 States District Court for the Southern District of California, 120 F.3d 933 (9th Cir. 1997);
15 Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 F.2d 411, 413 (5th Cir. 1992); United States v. King, 552 F.2d 833, 16 841-843 (9th Cir. 1976).

17 As shown above, this case presents exceptional circumstances where the interests of justice
18 mandate taking and preserving the material witness' testimony outside the court, i.e., by video
19 deposition. Defendant's rights under the confrontation clause are preserved by the statutory 20 requirements for a deposition, including the presence of a person authorized to put the witness under 21 oath, defendants' rights to be present, defendants' rights to be represented by counsel, and defendants'
22 rights to completely and adequately cross-examine the witness. See Fed.R.Civ.P. 28 and 30.
23 Moreover, these procedural requirements provide sufficient indicia of reliability to afford the trier
24 of fact a satisfactory basis for evaluating the truth of the prior statement, further protecting 25 defendant's rights under the confrontation clause. See Dutton v. Evans, 400 U.S. 74, 89 (1970);
26 California v. Green, 399 U.S. 149, 161 (1970).

27 / / / /

28 Finally, if the material witness fails to return for trial the deposition would be admissible, as

1 the material witness would meet the requirements for unavailability. In the context of this case, an 2 unavailable witness is one who is out of the United States, providing the absence of the witness was 3 not procured by the party offering the deposition, or a witness whose attendance cannot be procured
4 by subpoena 18 U.S.C. § 3503, subd. (f); see also Fed. R. Crim. Proc., Rule 15; Fed. R. Evid. 804(a).
5 Where a material witness has left the United States voluntarily or even, by forced deportation, the 6 witness' later absence from trial does not violate defendant's rights under the confrontation clause
7 provided the government makes a reasonable effort to assure the witness' attendance at trial.
8 Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 F.2d at 417 (citing United States V. Eufracio-Torres, 890 F.2d 266, 270
9 (10th Cir. 1989); see also United States v. Rivera, 859 F.2d at 1205.

10 Before the material witnesses in Eufracio-Torres were forcibly deported, the government,
11 using procedures similar to those presently employed in the Southern District of California, "served
12 them with trial subpoenas, instructed them on how to return for trial and how to obtain the necessary
13 travel funds." Eufracio-Torres, 890 F.2d at 270. Although the witnesses did not appear for trial, 14 the Court of Appeals held their deposition testimony was admissible under such circumstances.
15 Where "the government has exhausted reasonable effort to assure that the witness will attend trial
16 So long as the government has employed reasonable measures to secure the witness' presence 17 at trial, the fact that the witness has nevertheless failed to appear will not preclude the admission of 18 deposition testimony. Such a witness will be deemed 'unavailable' and the deposition is admissible
19 over the defendant's Confrontation Clause and hearsay objections." Aguilar-Ayala, 973 F.2d at 417
20 (quoting Ohio v. Roberts, 448 U.S. 56, 65 (1980)); see also Fed. R. Evid. 804(a).

21 Thus, even if the United States Attorney's reasonable and well-established procedures fail
22 to obtain the material witness' attendance at trial, statutory procedures for the taking of deposition
23 preserve defendant's Sixth Amendment confrontation rights, and would be admissible at trial.

24 B. *Deposition Preserves Defendants' Sixth Amendment Right to Compulsory Process

25 "The only recent decision of this Court dealing with the right to compulsory process
26 guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment suggests that more than mere absence of testimony is necessary
27 to establish a violation of the right." United States v. Valenzuela-Bernal, 458 U.S. 858, 867 (1982)
28 (witnesses deported before defendant interviewed them). Indeed, the Sixth Amendment does not

1 by its terms grant to a criminal defendant the right to secure the attendance and testimony of any and 2 all witnesses; rather "it guarantees him 'compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor."
3 Id., quoting U.S. Const., Amdt. 6 (emphasis added). Defendant cannot establish a violation of his 4 constitutional right to compulsory process merely by showing deportation of the witness deprived
5 him of his testimony. See Valenzuela-Bernal, 458 U.S. at 867, "[He] must at least make some 6 plausible showing of how his testimony would have been both material and favorable to [his]
7 defense." Id. (emphasis added); see also Fed. R. Crim. Proc., Rule 17(b) (requiring Government to 8 subpoena witnesses on behalf of indigent defendants "upon a satisfactory showing . . . that the 9 presence of the witness is necessary to an adequate defense.").

10 In this case, the material witness has been in custody since July 21, 2008. Since his arrest,
11 the material witness has been available for interview by the defense and the Assistant United States
12 Attorney, who have had the opportunity to ascertain the substance of any testimony the material
13 witness might provide at trial. Because material witness testimony can be adequately preserved by 14 video deposition and they are subject to the subpoena power of this court, further detention is not 15 necessary to prevent a failure of justice.

16 Moreover, a guarantee from the government that the material witness will return for trial is 17 not a prerequisite for an order for video deposition. The government is required only to use
18 reasonable means to insure the appearance of the material witness. See Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 19 F.2d 411, 417 (citing United States v. Eufracio-Torres, 890 F.2d 266, 270 (10th Cir. 1989). "We 20 gather from these cases that deposition testimony is admissible only if the government has exhausted
21 reasonable efforts to assure that the witness will attend trial. The ultimate success or failure of those 22 efforts is not dispositive. So long as the government has employed reasonable measures to secure 23 the witness' presence at trial, the fact that the witness has nevertheless failed to appear will not 24 preclude the admission of deposition testimony. Such a witness will be, deemed 'unavailable.'" Aguilar-Ayala
25 at 417-418 (citing Ohio v. Roberts, 488 U.S. 56, 65, (1980)). Because material 26 witness testimony can be adequately preserved by video deposition and she is subject to the 27 subpoena power of this court, defendants' rights to compulsory process are protected and the court 28 must order the deposition and release of the material witness.

1 C. Deposition Preserves Defendants' Fifth Amendment Right to Due Process

2 "Due process guarantees that a criminal defendant will be treated with that fundamental 3 fairness essential to the very concept of justice. In order to declare a denial of it we must find that 4 the absence of that fairness fatally infected the trial; the acts complained of must be of such quality
5 as necessarily prevents a fair trial." Valenzuela-Bernal, 488 U.S. at 871, quoting Lisenba v.
6 California, 314 U.S. 219, 236 (1941). In another context, the Court held that instances where the 7 government withholds evidence required by statute to be disclosed constitute due process violations
8 only when they "so infect the fairness of the trial as to make it 'more a spectacle or trial by ordeal
9 than disciplined contest.'" Valenzuela-Bernal at 871, quoting United States v. Augenblick, 393 U.S.
10 349, 356 (1969) (citations omitted). For there to be a due process violation by release of the 11 material witness in this case, defendant must provide "some explanation of how his/her testimony 12 would have been favorable and material." Id.

13 CONCLUSION

14 Based on the discussion above, witness Jesus Guzman-Gallardo, respectfully moves the 15 Court for an order requiring his video deposition be taken as soon as possible, and for his immediate 16 release from custody upon conclusion of the deposition, so that he can return to Mexico as he is the 17 sole support for his wife and five year old daughter.
